Bunnvale Library Receives Community Beautification Award from the Community Garden Club of Hunterdon County

Did you stop by the Bunnvale Library this summer and notice the lovely gardens? The Community Garden Club of Hunterdon County thought it was one of the most outstanding gardens of the area, and honored it with the Community Beautification Award at the Hunterdon County 4H Fair in August. The garden is now dormant for the winter, but drop by next spring and see the deer resistant perennials and shrubs in bloom. (The garden is pictured on the next page.)

A new garden was also installed in front of the Police Station this year. The former 55 foot long patch of weeds was turned into an attractive display of ornamental grasses, cannas and flowering perennials. The Walk of Remembrance and borders around the Municipal Building were also planted with many flowering perennials for constant seasonal bloom. The reconstructed gazebo is now a wonderful place to have lunch or just sit and appreciate the view.

With the increase of events at Memorial Park, the Diana Laul Children's Garden has become a favorite place for children and parents to watch the butterflies weaving in and out of the colorful and scented plants. Now in its third year, the garden is lush and always in bloom.

Four young redbud trees were installed on the grounds of the Memorial Park in memory of Lewis Wyman this fall. You won't be able to miss these lovely trees next spring when they burst out in a vivid display of deep pink blossoms. Their heart shaped leaves make them a perfect tree to remind us of a loved one. Our thanks go to the friends of the Wyman family for donating these trees, and the young men of the Mountainview Correctional Facility who planted them. Without their help and strength much of the heavy work done at the Park and the Municipal Building could not have been accomplished.

One of the most spectacular 9-11 Memorials is in Lebanon Township's Memorial Park. More trees, shrubs and flowering perennials were added this year to complete the serenity of the setting. Under the direction of Georgia Cudina, the young men of the Voorhees Residential Home and their horticulturalist, the Woodland Walk is now complete. You can wander through the woods from the 9-11 Memorial to the road, and take in the beauty of the forest. It will take years for the native plants to establish, but given time they will flourish.

The herb garden at the Museum on Musconetcong River Road was a riot of color and scent this summer. Next time you stop by for one of their instructional classes or craft displays, you must visit the herb garden as well.

This year was a busy one for the Garden Manager. All five gardens were given constant care and attention. Residents walking by as I worked in the garden commented on their beauty. Over 150 new plants, mostly donations, were installed to beautify Lebanon Township's gardens. I sincerely hope that next spring, when all five gardens begin to bloom, you will stop by and enjoy the scenery.

Thank you to Sandy Phelps, Lebanon Township Garden Manager!

Bunnvale Library

Springtime at the Bunnvale Library

Welcome in spring by visiting the Bunnvale Library's Rambo Memorial Cabinet to see Eva Burrell's Easter Bonnet Hat collection from the 1940's and vintage Easter Greeting Cards. In April, the library will display rugs from the Hunterdon Rug Hooking Guild. In May, Sharon Deerfield will display her homemade soaps and hand dyed knitted items. The library is always looking for interesting collections for their Ann Rambo Memorial Display Cabinet. Please let Marie, Joan or Ada know if you have a collection to share.

Sign-ups for the spring session of preschool story time will begin in March. The first story time will be on Friday, April 4, at 1:00 PM. Please come into the library to sign-up. Story time lasts for about 35 minutes. Stories are read and then they are followed by a craft. Children should be 3 1/2 to 5 years old. Enrollment is limited to ten.

Remember that you can now request items on-line at home from anywhere in the Hunterdon County Library system and the items can be delivered to the Bunnvale Library for convenient pick-up. Library hours are Wednesday from 1:00 - 8:00 PM, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10:00 AM - 5:00 PM.

First Aid Squad

At the Brink of Death: Recognize and Respond to a Drug Overdose

Do you know what an overdose looks like? What you don't know could be the difference between life and death for someone, maybe a loved one.

Overdoses have been in the paper a lot, most recently with the death of Heath Ledger. But, if someone you cared for had overdosed, would you know they were in trouble? In the newspapers, friends or family report hearing the deceased snoring. Unfortunately, it is a scenario that members of the squad have come to find all too familiar.

Did you know that "snoring" is a sign of imminent death in an overdose? It occurs when the central nervous system is no longer functioning properly and the person loses control of their airway. If you know someone has consumed alcohol or other drugs and you think they are sleeping it off, try waking them up. If you cannot wake them, even after taking your knuckles and rubbing them firmly against their breastbone, it's time to call 9-1-1.

As the body tries to save essential organs, specifically the heart and brain, it will siphon blood from other parts of the body to feed these organs. Initially, the body constricts the blood vessels to the limbs. The limbs will appear bluish and have a lace-like mottled appearance. The body will continue to shut down systems and the mottled appearance will spread. The lack of blood causes the tissue to die and toxins to build up. If not treated in time, the shock will be irreversible.

Not all drugs are created equal. While narcotics can be counteracted if caught in time, cyclobenzaprine (a muscle relaxant) can cause permanent heart damage if taken in large quantities. Benzodiazepines (found in sedatives) also cause heart damage, as well as most "uppers." Paracetamol (Tylenol) in large quantities will cause liver damage. It is possibly one of the worst over-the-counter drugs to overdose on.

Alcohol is one of the most abused drugs, yet many people don't think of alcohol as a drug. This can be a fatal mistake. As alcohol is metabolized it uses up the bodies glucose. The more alcohol, the more glucose it consumes. Glucose is the fuel the brain uses to function. Without it, the brain will slowly stop functioning and start shutting down. Glucose levels can reach dangerous lows and the victim can fall into a hypoglycemic coma and eventually die.

Most importantly, never try to handle an overdose by yourself. Urban myths abound when dealing with an overdose. Instead of giving someone who is drunk, coffee, give them fruit juice. It will restore some of their glucose. Never cool down an overdose victim. The only thing putting someone in a cold shower or packing them with ice will do is delay getting them help and possibly make them hypothermic. Do your friend or family member a favor and get help as quickly as possible by dialing 9-1-1.

Finally, use your common sense. When in doubt, call 9-1-1. We promise to never pass judgment and to always treat our patients and their families with respect and compassion. We have lost too many young people to drug abuse in this community. Join the squad in taking a stand against drug abuse by educating yourself in its signs and symptoms. If you have any questions, please contact us at www.19Rescue.org.

Environmental and Open Space Commission (EOS)

Our Own Wild and Scenic River

By Ken LaPensee, Environmental and Open Space Commission Member

When we in New Jersey hear about the National Park Service's designation "Wild and Scenic River", I imagine that most of us picture Maine's Allagash River or the headwaters of the Missouri in the Rocky Mountains. It will probably come as a surprise to most state residents, including residents of Lebanon Township, to learn that 24 miles of the 42-mile length of our own Musconetcong River, which delimits the northwestern boundaries of the township as well as Hunterdon and Morris Counties, was awarded the Wild and Scenic River designation on December 22, 2006. The Wild and Scenic designation applies to the entire stretch of river flowing past Lebanon Township, as well as to substantial sections of the river both upstream and downstream.

The awarding of this designation recognizes what many of us who have walked the trails of the Musconetcong Mountain Reservation alongside the river, waded into its waters for fishing, or traveled the river by kayak or canoe, have long felt in our hearts. This major tributary to the Delaware provides an often dramatically bucolic contrast to nearby suburban landscapes in our region, just 50 miles from the New York and Philadelphia metropolitan regions. In the words of the National Park Service, "With many of its tributaries being trout production streams, the Musconetcong River is one of the finest fishing streams in New Jersey. At periods of higher flows, the river is also an excellent paddling river. There are miles of hiking trails, particularly in the upper end of the corridor at Allamuchy-Stevens and Point Mountain State Parks."

The Wild and Scenic designation was won in large part due to a formal study involving the Musconetcong Advisor Committee with the assistance of the National Park Service, which was reported in The Musconetcong River Management Plan (April, 2003). The study report is available in PDF format at a link on the National Park Service website (<http://www.nps.gov/nero/rivers/muskie.htm>).

Beyond recognizing the Musconetcong's beauty and ecological value, the Wild and Scenic designation facilitates a range of natural preservation measures and activities that can benefit from the support of Township residents. These activities are described in detail in the river management plan, which recommends five goals for the maintenance and improvement of the Musconetcong River Corridor, its tributaries and watershed, and surrounding natural, cultural and recreational resources. The management plan's goals are:

- Encourage recreational use that is compatible with the preservation of natural and cultural qualities of the river corridor while respecting private property
- Preserve and protect the character of archaeological sites and historic structures, districts, sites and landscapes in the river

- Preserve farmland and open space within the river corridor and the watershed
- Preserve, protect, restore and enhance the outstanding natural resources in the river corridor and the watershed, including rare and endangered species, forests, steep slopes, floodplains, headwaters and wetlands
- Maintain existing water quality in the Musconetcong River and its tributaries and improve where possible.

These goals can only be met with cooperation between all levels of government, individual landowners and non-governmental organizations, with local municipalities playing a key role in implementing planned actions.

To view more photos and read additional information about the Musconetcong River, go to www.lebanontownship.net and click on the Environmental and Open Space Commission link.

Solutions to Stormwater Pollution

Easy Things You Can Do Every Day To Protect Our Water

A Guide to Healthy Habits for Cleaner Water

Pollution on streets, parking lots and lawns is washed by rain into storm drains, then directly to our drinking water supplies and the ocean and lakes our children play in. Fertilizer, oil, pesticides, detergents, pet waste, grass clippings: You name it and it ends up in our water.

Stormwater pollution is one of New Jersey's greatest threats to clean and plentiful water, and that's why we're all doing something about it.

By sharing the responsibility and making small, easy changes in our daily lives, we can keep common pollutants out of stormwater. It all adds up to cleaner water, and it saves the high cost of cleaning up once it's dirty.

As part of New Jersey's initiative to keep our water clean and plentiful and to meet federal requirements, many municipalities and other public agencies including colleges and military bases must adopt ordinances or other rules prohibiting various activities that contribute to stormwater pollution. Breaking these rules can result in fines or other penalties.

As a resident, business, or other member of the New Jersey community, it is important to know these easy things you can do every day to protect our water.

Limit your use of fertilizers and pesticides

- Do a soil test to see if you need a fertilizer.
- Do not apply fertilizers if heavy rain is predicted.
- Look into alternatives for pesticides.
- Maintain a small lawn and keep the rest of your property or yard in a natural state with trees and other native vegetation that requires little or no fertilizer.
- If you use fertilizers and pesticides, follow the instructions on the label on how to correctly apply it.

Make sure you properly store or discard any unused portions.

Properly use and dispose of hazardous products

- Hazardous products include some household or commercial cleaning products, lawn and garden care products, motor oil, antifreeze, and paints.
- Do not pour any hazardous products down a storm drain because storm drains are usually connected to local waterbodies and the water is not treated.

- If you have hazardous products in your home or workplace, make sure you store or dispose of them properly. Read the label for guidance.
- Use natural or less toxic alternatives when possible.
- Recycle used motor oil.
- Contact your municipality, county or facility management office for the locations of hazardous-waste disposal facilities.

Keep pollution out of storm drains

- Municipalities and many other public agencies are required to mark certain storm drain inlets with messages reminding people that storm drains are connected to local waterbodies.
- Do not let sewage or other wastes flow into a stormwater system.

Clean up after your pet

- Many municipalities and public agencies must enact and enforce local pet-waste rules.
- An example is requiring pet owners or their keepers to pick up and properly dispose of pet waste dropped on public or other people's property.
- Make sure you know your town's or agency's requirements and comply with them. It's the law. And remember to:
 - Use newspaper, bags or pooper-scoopers to pick up wastes.
 - Dispose of the wrapped pet waste in the trash or unwrapped in a toilet.
 - Never discard pet waste in a storm drain.

Don't feed wildlife

- Do not feed wildlife, such as ducks and geese, in public areas.
- Many municipalities and other public agencies must enact and enforce a rule that prohibits wildlife feeding in these areas.

Don't litter

- Place litter in trash receptacles.
- Recycle. Recycle. Recycle.
- Participate in community cleanups.

Dispose of yard waste properly

- Keep leaves and grass out of storm drains.
- If your municipality or agency has yard waste collection rules, follow them.
- Use leaves and grass clippings as a resource for compost.
- Use a mulching mower that recycles grass clippings into the lawn.

Historians

A Look back at our Heritage ... By Ralph Lomerson Lebanon Township Historian

This article comes from the High Bridge Gazette, of August 13, 1925

New High Power Line in Operation

New Jersey Power & Light Company Opens 110,000 Volt Electric Line

SUB-STATION AT LEBANON TOWNSHIP

The first 110,000 volt electric transmission line in the State of New Jersey was placed in operation by The New Jersey Power & Light Company last week when current was switched into the super power line between Holland and Lebanon Township.

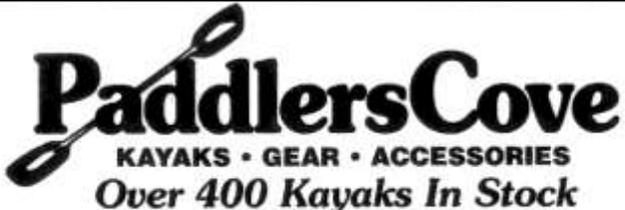

Additional power required by residential and industrial customers of this company is now being supplied over this new line, which provides another and stronger connection with the remainder of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey Super Power System. Large Generating stations at Easton and Reading, Pa., and a powerful new base load station on the Susquehanna River, near Harrisburg, Pa., are now connected directly to the New Jersey system by 110,000 volt lines.

The Holland-Lebanon Township section is the newest link in a continuous chain of super-power lines and generating stations extending about 250 miles across Pennsylvania and New Jersey. This system forms a vast reservoir of electric power, providing a practically unlimited supply from which the connected companies, including The New Jersey Power & Light Company, can draw as required by their customers needs. In case of interruption from one station, the power is available from a number of others. The entire system is included in the Boston-Washington zone of the official Super Power Survey of the United States Government.

High steel towers and steel-reinforced aluminum cable, built to withstand almost any weather condition, carry a double-current line from the Delaware River, at Holland, to the sub-station in Lebanon Township. There are 97 towers averaging about one-fifth mile apart, although the longest span, not far east of Holland, is nearly one-half mile. The cost of the 17 mile line was more than $200,000 and an additional $50,000 was expended to increase the capacity of the Lebanon Township sub-station to 5,000 k. w. At this sub-station, which is advantageously situated for supplying Flemington and Lambertville, the power is transformed to lower and switched into the New Jersey system for distribution.

Construction of the Holland-Lebanon Township line was started late last year and pushed rapidly to completion in spite of adverse conditions for outdoor construction last winter. The last mile of cable was strung on the steel towers into Lebanon Township about the first of August, and arrangements were made to put the line into immediate action. While rated as a 110,000 volt line, it actually is operated at 114,000 volts. The line is expected to be in daily operation, augmenting the supply from the Dover power station. The New Jersey Power & Light Company's system includes about 200 miles of high tension transmission lines and 450 miles of distribution lines.

The Sub-station mentioned above, was located on the west side of Route 31, where the small brick building is located. All transformers were in the fenced-in area. There was nothing on the east side of Route 31. The land on that side was purchased later. Even though electric power came to Lebanon Township in 1925, it wasn't until 1933 that the line was extended to the Spruce Run area. My parents home, which was located on Lomerson Lane, was the last house on the line. Whenever a thunder storm came through, and lightning struck nearby, a ball of fire would explode from a plug receptacle. The power line was installed along Sanitarium Road, then Mt. Kipp Road, then toward the Spruce Run Church, and onto the homestead.

From the Memorial Park Committee ...

The bathrooms at Memorial Park were, unfortunately, vandalized in December. The bathrooms are locked from November 1st through April 1st. If anyone sees anyone in the bathrooms during this time, please contact the Police Department immediately.

The following items are on the Parks Committee's goal list for this year:

- Revamp the walking paths around the Park to complete the loop which once existed before some of the other improvements were made.
- Install storm drains to prevent future eroding of the parking lot.
- Complete guard rails, once the storm drains are installed.
- Install pavers from the driveway to the pavilion.

We have also scheduled work days on April 5th and 19th.

Food Drive for the Open Cupboard Food Pantry Continues

Last fall, in response to seriously low supplies at the Open Cupboard Food Pantry, the Glen Gardner General Store organized a Food Drive. Because the drive was such a great success, yielding hundreds of pounds of food and sundry items, the General Store has decided to continue it through August, 2008.

The Food Pantry is located at 81 West Main Street in High Bridge and also includes a thrift shop run by, never enough, neighborhood volunteers. All of the proceeds from the thrift shop go to the Food Pantry. Although people have been very generous with thrift shop donations, there remains a huge demand for food and paper goods. Donations of non-perishables, canned foods, and paper goods are needed all year round to maintain an even flow of assistance to clients.

Donations may be brought directly to the Food Pantry or may be dropped off at the Glen Gardner General Store at 58 Main Street, Glen Gardner. Please contact Shelly Baluta at (908) 537-2319 for additional information.

Thank you all for your kind efforts. Many of our neighbors will benefit from your generosity.

Hunterdon Helpline's Friendly Visitor Program

The Friendly Visitor Program focuses on identifying and meeting the socialization needs of the elderly in the community. The program provides companionship to socially isolated and homebound seniors. Studies have confirmed that continuing social interaction helps maintain quality of healthy living in the aging community.

The Friendly Visitor Program recruits volunteers, who care about the elderly, and are willing to share a bit of their time to make a difference in the lives of a senior, who may be housebound, lonely, or in need of companionship. Volunteers should be good listeners, patient, and available for weekly visits with a senior. The hour-long visit is usually in the senior's home and may be a chat, a walk, reading, playing cards, or some other mutually agreed upon activity.

We recommend a dedicated commitment to the program. Orientation interview, training and the coordinator provide ongoing support.

We are also looking for seniors who would like to have someone visit him/her one hour a week.

Please contact 2-1-1 for further information.

Interest Free Loans Available to Hunterdon County Residents for College Studies

The Hunterdon County Board of Agriculture administers the Clifford E and Melda C Snyder Scholarship Loan Fund. Mrs. Snyder was a teacher and her husband, Clifford was a farmer and leader in the agricultural community for many years. Mrs. Snyder continued the family interest in agriculture until her death in 1987. The Loan Fund was established under the terms of her will to make interest free loans to students pursuing careers in agriculture and related fields such as agricultural research, food science and veterinary medicine. The minimum loan is $2,000 per year. There is no set maximum loan amount.

Applicants must be high school graduates who resided in Hunterdon County for at least five years immediately prior to graduation. Recipients may be enrolled in a two or four-year college or a vocational/technical institute anywhere in or outside the United States.
