

The Story of Irishtown

Newark's Ironbound section was dubbed Little Ireland, Trenton's Fourth Ward was known as Irishtown and Paterson had its own Dublin. Spring Lake and other shore towns are still called the Irish Riviera. Come listen to the story of how a small settlement along present day Route 31 in Glen Gardner became known as "Irishtown".

The presenter, Charles Speierl, Ed. D., is a professor of U.S. and European history at Thomas Edison State University with a focus on 19th century America during and after the Civil War, including Irish immigrant history.
